Empowerment Through Inclusive Technology

SAVE THE DATE
APRIL 26-27, 2023

TechKnowledge is back and we're celebrating 22+ years of inspiring others! This two-day conference provides an opportunity to learn new information, practice new skills, engage in maker's activities, create assistive technology (AT) supports, network, and gather and share resources about assistive and inclusive technology through a variety of sessions and workshops.

Participants will not only learn about evidence-based assistive technology in educational, vocational, and community settings with students of all ages and disabilities, but will walk away with skills that equip them to implement these practices in their day-to-day work and activities.

Whether you are a novice or an expert, in general education or special education, this conference is designed for you! We're inviting anyone to attend who supports students with disabilities (PreK-12), including teachers, paraprofessionals, related services personnel, assistive technology team members, instructional technology specialists, coaches, administrators, family members and others who are inspired to build independence and self-advocacy skills in their students.

Come learn with us and share your passion for assistive and inclusive technology!
